GALAXY4GAMERS.COM UNVEILS GROUNDBREAKING "BEAT-A-PRO" PLATFORM

Partnership with Empire Arcadia Creates a New Revenue Vehicle for Pro-Gamers

Los Angeles, CA - Competitive video gaming and social network site, Galaxy4Gamers (G4G) announces its launch of their latest product offering, Beat-A-Pro. The first-ever platform of its kind, Beat-A-Pro is a unique program where gamers can line up and challenge world famous gamers, like Alex "CaliPower" Valle from LevelUp, Justin "Marvelous" Wong, Robert "Prod1gyX" Paz and Ciji "Starslay3r" Thorton each week on G4G.

"We are taking professional gaming to a whole new level by integrating a virtual arcade, progressive jackpots and live-streaming with playback into one slick interface," says Chris Doe, G4G CEO. "This platform gives pro-gamers a viable way to make money from their skills, and gives up-and-coming gamers a chance to make their mark by competing against the best. If you're looking to take your video game skills to the next level, this is the place to build your resume, gain serious fame and recognition and train against the greatest! Plus, anyone can watch the live video stream, and gamers can build their fan-base."

Beat-A-Pro is available to the world on March 8, 2010. Gamers can relive the good old arcade days and play a variety of titles each week against world-renowned cyberathletes, including three of Empire Arcadia's famous pro-gamers, and win fame, glory and cold-hard-cash. Current gaming genres offered are Fighting and Music on the most popular consoles, G4G will be launching several more genres including FirstPersonShooter and Sports titles in the next month. Instant recognition, fame and huge jackpots await anyone who can beat the best of the best at their respective game.

"Pro Gaming continues to develop each year, and as a development company for Digital Competitive Entertainment, Empire Arcadia is proud to lend its hand to the evolution of professional gaming," says Triforce, Empire Arcadia CEO and Founder. "G4G has created an innovative platform using a unique technology for some of Empire Arcadia's most prolific gamers to compete against other gamers from all over the world."
